

ADEL'S PASSION FOR COFFEE AND PEOPLE

For many people, Covid-19 changed their lives in a very bad way, but for Adel it opened the door to her dream.

Elzaan Pienaar

Adel Griesel (42) had the choice to either sit at home and wait for possible job opportunities or to get up and do something she has always dreamt of.

She had to make this decision after she was retrenched in August after being a travel agent for about 22 years. "When I got the news, I was in a state," she said.

Her dream

One of her dreams has always been to open a coffee shop at the beach. "So instead of opening it at the beach, my husband, Johann, came up with this idea of a coffee tuk-tuk. We then took my package money and bought a tuk-tuk and started planning and building."

By November, Adel was at the corner of Vermooten Street and Swartkoppies Road selling a variety of coffees and muffins. People were literally standing in queues for her coffee.

"Covid-19 created a lot of bad experiences and life changes for many people, but for me, it opened a door," she said.

Delicious Coffee and Treats

"We registered the business as Adedicious Coffee and Treats, and I also got a health and safety certificate," she explained.

According to her, when she worked at MTN one of her colleagues, Thulane, always made her coffee and he always called her Adedicious.

Adel is parked on the premises of one of her friends, Henter Kriel, who does not charge her a cent.

"He has been so generous and supportive towards me, and I am very thankful for him."

Adedicious Coffee and Treats is open weekly from 6.30am to 2.30pm. On weekends Adel and her family travel to markets and festivals.

More than just coffee

Adel told the RECORD the best part about her job is that she gets to meet so many people.

"I got to know them and their stories. I also learnt a lot from my clients. It is more than just selling good coffee, it is about those personal connections I make with them," she said.

Every morning she gets up at 5am to bake muffins so that it can be ready by 6.30am. "My husband helps me to pack the tuk-tuk. My daughter enjoys baking with me, and my son loves going with when I have to buy stock. So I also spend time with my loved ones," she added.

Unique in her own way

"I believe I am offering the community something unique. I make all my products myself and I believe in my products."

On a personal note

Adel has been living in Brackenhurst for almost 16 years. She has been married to Johann Griesel for five years and has two children, Morné and Leigh-anka.

In her spare time, she loves to walk her three dogs and she also enjoys cycling. "We love to do things together as a family," she said.

Adel is inspired by people, and she is living her dream.

Businesses move out of Alrode area

Simphiwe Malunga

Reports of service delivery issues, such as periodic power outages, have resurfaced as factors for businesses to migrate.

This comes after an Alrode business centre and its neighbouring companies operated without power for two consecutive days.

In an interview with the RECORD, an aggravated Alrode business owner Grant Freeman pointed out that potholes are another factor that devalues the area.

Freeman said businesses are already moving out because of a lack of service delivery from the City of Ekurhuleni.

"We as Alrode businesses have taken it upon ourselves to buy stones and sand so that we put them in the potholes. However, the minute it rains the holes open up again. The potholes affect us on a personal and business level. Power outages are also a big concern," he said.

He told the RECORD that they have been running five generators for basic operations in the businesses.

"As one drives down the road, most businesses are either for sale or buildings are standing empty. With these ongoing power outages, we have had to leave our gate wide open since it takes up a lot of power to operate using a generator and this creates a safety concern," he said.

He also said in 2020, he and his tenants faced a loss of an excess of R5-million due to service delivery issues.

Ward 106 councillor Alderman Bruna Haipel echoed his sentiments and said businesses are the heart of the municipality and the financial backbone of the country.

"Most businesses in Alrode are threatening to close down because without proper service delivery businesses are likely to move out of Alberton. We will escalate this matter to parliament seeing that all our requests are ignored," she said.

Tim Denny, Ward 106 committee member, advised that neighbouring companies should opt to have a business forum and tackle these issues head-on.

On behalf of CoE, Thamba Gadebe previously stated that the moving of businesses may have a weakening effect on the socio-economic status of the City and residents.

"It must be noted that no electricity distributor anywhere in the world can guarantee uninterrupted supply of electricity at all times. And that all metros and municipalities are facing similar challenges in terms of third party interference on the electrical network," he said.

Alderman Bruna Haipel (Ward 106 councillor), Grant Freeman and Tim Denny (Ward 106 committee member).

Front: Lindi Liebisch (acting magistrate), Joanna de Bruyn (GM), Kgalalelo Masiloane (clerk) and Sgt Phumza Mgedezi. Back: Rochelle Foster (Addict's Voice), Odette Read (Mediator's Inc), Martin Kroukamp (magistrate), Jade Sellers (marketing manager) and Danie van Loggerenberg (founder).

Child protection hotline launched for greater Alberton

Greater Alberton residents will now have an exclusive child protection hotline, a platform used to easily report cases of abuse and violence in children.

This was announced during the launch of the newly established hotline at Mall at Newmarket on March 25 by Danie van Loggerenberg, founder of Toys for Africa and Child Protection Hotline.

Van Loggerenberg also announced the launch of a hotline for the Greater Palm Ridge area, which will look at Thokoza and Katlehong areas. He has since joined forces with Palm Ridge Magistrate's Court, Alberton SAPS social prevention crime unit, Mediators Incorporated and Addict's Voice.

Mall at Newmarket has since decided to come on board and sponsor the child protection hotline.

The hotline aims to tackle bullying, child abuse, child neglect, drug use, cyberbullying and human trafficking head-on.

"When you're a child and you're in need, you look at your own area first to get help. This is the number that they will use to either SMS or call when they need help and we will then connect them to the right people to help them. The hotlines will work the same as all the others," said van Loggerenberg.

According to van Loggerenberg, he is going to be the person that connects those in need of help to relevant departments.

Ideal partnership

He also told the RECORD that they have grown from strength-to-strength in their mission to fight social crimes.

"We have since expanded to have our own call centre, which is managed by skilled social workers. Joining hands with different entities for us means we will know which channels to go through tackling these issues," said van Loggerenberg.

Lindi Liebisch, the acting magistrate at Palm Ridge Magistrate's Court, said as magistrates they act in children's best interests.

"It's not that we as magistrates are acting personally. We just have the correct framework to make sure that those children who need care are directed to the right people. We are here to facilitate as part of the process," she said.

Martin Kroukamp, the magistrate at Palm Ridge Magistrate's Court, reiterated that he has over time noticed alarming criminal cases involving sexual acts between children.

"I also deal with child justice proceedings, where one does not take a child through the whole criminal process because they try to involve social services. Victims being anything from ages two to 12, and perpetrators being from ages nine to 16," he said.

Should an emergency arise, the community is urged to contact the Alberton Child Protection Hotline on 064 931 5139. The Greater Palm Ridge Child Protection Hotline can be reached on 066 387 1564.

Firefighters battle Alrode fire

Emergency services responded to a fire that raged through the night at a factory in Alrode on March 27.

Firefighters arrived at the scene on Charles Street around 9.15pm.

According to Eric Maloka, spokesperson for Ekurhuleni Emergency Services, the factory was already burning intensely when they arrived and they requested back up from other fire stations outside Alberton.

"The fire was discovered in a storage area for polymer and hydrogen peroxide," said Maloka. "A defensive mode of attack was initiated to curb the fire spreading to surrounding buildings. Fires involving hydrogen peroxide are more intense than if fuel was burning with the normal concentration of oxygen." The storeroom was estimated to hold 90 201 cans of polymer and 6 000 liters of hydrogen peroxide.

A total of 22 firefighters battled through the night to contain the blaze. Foam was sprayed to isolate the fuel from oxygen. Their job was made more difficult by a collapsed roof that prevented access to the base of the fire.

By midnight all visible flames had been knocked down, but a reassessment of the scene found that smouldering hot spots under the debris could still cause problems. By 6am on March 28 the manpower on scene was scaled down to two major pumps with a water tanker. This water tanker would remain to ensure the scene remained contained.

According to Maloka, the cause of the fire is still unknown. Investigations by the fire and safety department of DEMS and other authorities will continue.

"We felt the energy and enthusiasm in the room as everyone gathered to take their seats and prepared themselves to listen to eight brand new SOJO members introduce their business and speak about how they survived or thrived during the pandemic stages."

The dynamic entrepreneurs who presented were: Lee Brennon from Leek Plumbing, Ann Brennon from Aircon At Cost, Frank Diener from Klipriviersberg Nature Reserve Association, Anele Veltman

Locals have a blast during the social market

Simpliwe Malunga

The Alberante-Randhart Security Village, sponsored by Protective Force and Wild Ones Educational Animal Shows, hosted an Easter treasure hunt and social market on March 27 in Alberante.

The market gave vendors an opportunity to showcase their arts and crafts, food, and there were great prize giveaways. Children were also thrilled to receive a visit from the Easter bunny.

Adelia Hamburg of Protective Force told the RECORD the event was also hosted to gather donations for the Abraham Kriel Children's Home.

"Locals had a chance to donate to the children's home as we had placed donation boxes around. We were taking donations ranging from preloved clothes to toys that were still in good condition. The home is struggling because it operates purely on donations, especially during this time," she said.

Leanne Trim, Alberante-Randhart Security Village committee member, reiterated that this was their second biggest event to help create a sense of community.

Among many other vendors on the day were OMFG Foodtruck, Habibi Properties, FFD Laser, Candy'z Arts, Adelicious Coffee, Penny Whistle Bead and Wire and Martins Academy.

Buying a property in distress

The unfortunate reality is that there has been an increase in the number of distressed property sales owing to the lockdown and a rising unemployment rate.

"The misnomer is that it is not the house that is in distress but the homeowner," said Adrian Goslett, regional director and CEO of RE/MAX of Southern Africa.

Distressed property sales refer to homes that have been put onto the market because the homeowner has fallen into some sort of financial peril and can no longer afford to keep up with his debt repayments.

"Sadly, in these trying financial times, we are likely to see an uptake in the amount of these kinds of sales."

To help buyers understand these kinds of sales, Goslett explained the three corresponding terms used to describe these properties:

Bank-mandated sales

These sales are the first stage in the downward spiral of distressed property sales and are usually the less risky of these sorts of transactions since the owner is on board with the sale. Hopelessly behind on payments, the mortgage holder usually volunteers to have the bank put the house on the market to recover the rest of the debt.

Sales in execution/public auctions

If the sale is taking too long, the bank may decide to take things to the next stage. After obtaining the required approval from the High Court, the property can be sold at a public auction. Rather than holding out for the best price, these sales aim to recover the outstanding debt owed to the bank.

Foreclosure/bank repossessed property

Should the property fail to sell at public auction, the bank takes possession of the home and mandates the sale to their chosen estate agent.

This can be incredibly traumatic for the sellers, which is why it is always advisable to be open with the bank from the very beginning if the homeowner is unable to keep up with their monthly installments.

When considering these properties, Goslett advised buyers to set a purchasing budget as well as an additional renovation budget.

"There are now 955 active brokers/owners, managers and sales associates who have become CDPAs within our network who are equipped to assist the seller in reducing their debt to zero," he said.

Hyundai bumps up its Grand i10 version

An all-new, fresh version of Hyundai's biggest seller in South Africa has arrived with style and flair, roominess, a comprehensive list of features and road manners that belies its compact size.

The new Grand i10 really is a small car with a big heart and makes a big statement.

From the beautiful, bold new grille and fresh exterior styling to its exemplary driving characteristics on the road, the all-new Hyundai Grand i10 feels and looks like a bigger car.

Yet, when it comes to fuel economy and price, it answers positively to two very important criteria of car buyers in the entry-level segment.

Best seller

Characterised by its young, dynamic design, comprehensive safety package and class-leading connectivity, the all-new i10 offers Hyundai customers many features that are not always seen in a car of its size.

The Grand i10, built in India and exported to 87 countries all over the globe, had a tough task as a successor of the hugely successful Getz in South Africa, but it more than lived up to the challenge.

Now in its third generation, more than 1.15 million Grand i10s have been exported from India, and 49 252 of those have been sold in South Africa from 2014 to 2020.

"In fact, it has become Hyundai Automotive South Africa's best-seller and it takes a very important position in our wide range of Hyundai models for the local market. We believe that, especially in the present economic conditions and the global Covid-19 crisis, it has a very important role and that there is still growth in its segment which has plenty competitors," said Stanley Anderson, sales and operations director of Hyundai Automotive South Africa.

"Entry-level cars do not have to remind you of that status because of the way they drive, the way they sound when you close the doors, their lack of head and leg room and sparse features list. The new Hyundai Grand i10 with its solid body, good looks, spacious interior and extensive specification list proves that, and gives you the experience of a bigger car despite its compact dimensions," said Anderson.

Exterior styling gives Grand i10 attitude

Admire it from any angle, and the all-new Grand i10 will catch your eye with its bold stance and contemporary design visibility.

New LED daytime running lamps and fog lamps (in the Fluid versions), combines with the stylish bold grille to give the new Grand i10 a bold road presence. All bumpers and door handles are body-coloured, but the Motion derivatives have a black front grille and black trim for the side rear-view mirrors.

The Fluid versions' front grille is treated with a neat chrome finish and the addition of day-time LED running lights in the side corners.

The Grand i10 Motion versions are also differentiated from its Fluid siblings by their 14-inch steel wheels with an attractive cover, while the Fluid derivatives are equipped with alloy wheels.

The 1-litre Fluid version comes with a 14-inch alloy wheel, and the 1.2-litre flagship Fluid derivatives sport 15-inch alloy wheels with a different design.

Grand i10 buyers can choose from five body colours: polar white, phantom black, typhoon silver, titan grey and fiery red. The Fluid version offers additional two-tone options: the polar white and fiery red body colours with a black roof.

Interior styling and 'big car' convenience features

When perusing the list of features in the new Grand i10, it is surprisingly long for a car of such a small stature. For the Fluid version it ranges from, inter alia, heated side rear-view mirrors to a multi-function steering wheel, artificial leather seat covers with sassy red stitching and rear park assistance.

The height of the driver's seat in all derivatives is adjustable and the rear seats' backrest can fold forward – as a full bench for the Motion derivatives, and in a 60:40 split for the Fluid versions. In all derivatives the occupants can stay cool, thanks to a manual air conditioning system with air vents for rear passengers as well.

All Grand i10 versions are equipped with an infotainment system with a 6.2-inch touchscreen which displays Apple's CarPlay or Android Auto when stered rear seats back support were designed for optimum comfort during long journeys and while cornering.

The flat rear seat bench provides comfortable seating for three passengers. The seats have been given enhanced thigh support for comfortable long journeys.

Two petrol engines, manual and auto transmission

A 998 cc 3-cylinder engine and a slightly bigger 1 197 cc Kappa 4-cylinder engine are used to drive the new Grand i10 range. The 1-litre engine delivers 49kW peak power at 5 500 r/min and 94 Nm maximum torque at 3 500 r/min, while its 1.2-litre sibling reaches its power peak of 61kW at 6 000 r/min and maximum torque of 114 Nm at 4 000 r/min.

The new Grand i10's seats are designed to provide a relaxed and comfortable drive for all occupants. The bolstered front seats ensure superior comfort for both driver and passenger, especially while cornering, and the bolstered rear seats with the 1-litre engine and 5-speed manual transmission was measured at 5.4 litres per 100km. The 1.2-litre Grand i10 Fluid recorded fuel consumption of 5.9 litres per 100km, and 6.9 litres per 100km using the 4-speed automatic gearbox.

Safety

All new Grand i10 versions come with driver and front passenger airbags, ISOFIX child seat attachments on the rear seats and pretensioners for the front seat occupants' seat belts.

Pricing

The prices of the Grand i10 range are:

- Grand i10 1.0 Motion (manual) – R191 900

Ford Ranger wins award

The Ford Ranger has firmly cemented its place as one of South Africa's best pickups after being selected as the winner in CAR Magazine's 2021 Top 12 Best Buys in the double-cab pickup category for an unprecedented 10th consecutive year.

The annual CAR Top 12 Best Buys Awards is one of SA's longest-running and most respected automotive industry awards.

"A big factor in the awards is the legacy vote. If a vehicle has won nine times before it's going to need something exemplary to knock it off its pedestal," said CAR editor Ray Leatham.

Of the extensive double cab line-up, the CAR editorial team picked the 2.0-litre Single Turbo XLT 4x4 with the advanced 10-speed automatic transmission as its favourite model.

"Being awarded the prestigious award for the 10th consecutive year is a huge accolade," said Doreen Mashinini, GM marketing at Ford South Africa.

Ford also introduced the FordPass app and FordPass Connect embedded modem as standard on all Ranger models from February 2021. This system makes it possible to lock and unlock the doors from a mobile phone.

Jaguar unveils its refreshed XF model

Jaguar has unveiled its refreshed XF model for the 2021 model to keep it fresh in the executive sedan stable.

Luxury inside

Inside, the small infotainment system has been replaced by a curved 11.4-inch high-definition touchscreen. The system is fitted with the new Pivi Pro infotainment system with Apple CarPlay and Android Auto as well as over-the-air updates and surround-view cameras.

There is a new fully digital instrument cluster and a convention gear lever that replaces the rotary knob of the predecessor.

Classic looks

Only die-hard fans of the product will easily notice the changes. The refreshed Jaguar XF comes with slimmer LED quad headlights while the grille gets diamond detailing with chrome finishing. Buyers can opt for a black exterior package that swaps all the chrome detailing for black detailing.

The Jaguar XF rides on new 19-inch five-spoke wheels in silver or glossy black. There are also 20-inch wheels available finished in satin or glossy black.

Behind the pedal

The new Jaguar XF is powered by a range of Ingenium four-cylinder petrol and next-generation diesel powertrains.

The new XF is available exclusively with eight-speed automatic transmissions, rear-or all-wheel drive. For the South African market, the oil-burner comes courtesy of a D200 with 147kW and 430Nm plus a RWD format. It hurdles from a standstill to 100km/h in a claimed 7.6 seconds. The petrol variants include the P250 with 183kW and 365Nm, all sent to the rear axle and gets to 100km/h in 6.9 seconds.

The P300 joins the range with 221kW and 400Nm as well as 6.1-seconds sprint to the 100km/h mark.

The refreshed Jaguar XF is expected to launch in SA in early 2021 and pricing will be announced soon.

SEEING IS BELIEVING

My name is Tamarah Masagwana, my number is 063 306 8594 and I live in Houghton. I am a single mother with 2 kids. My husband died 3 years ago and since then I have been struggling to raise my kids on my own, so I decided to try some doctors from newspapers but there was no luck. They just took my money by telling me different lies and I lost everything including my husband's house. But just months ago my friend Lerato introduce me to Mama Zahara who helped her financially without robbing her.

She only used R550 for the short boys to put money into her account successfully, so I didn't waste much time to try my luck because I witnessed how Mama Zahara changed Lerato's life within a short time. So my job was successful and I received R850 000, of which I gave her 10% from the money she put into my account. So to my fellow brothers and sister, please don't fall into the wrong hands. Life is too short to waste money on scams. Just contact Mama Zahara on

Para athletes take on SA triathlon

Masselspoort Resort and Conference Centre hosted the South African Triathlon Championships in Bloemfontein on March 21.

The event included the para-championships. In this category, spirits were high and seven inspiring individuals took part in their respective disability classes to compete for ultimate glory in the sprint distance event.

Each athlete, with some from Alberton, completed a 750m swim in the Modder River, followed by a 20km cycle and finished off with a 5km run.

Athletes competed with disabilities which varied from sight impairments to limb deformities and amputations. Athletes who competed at the national championships were eligible to compete at the 2021 African Continental Championships to be held in Egypt this June.

Gavin Kilpatrick of Velocity Inspired Performance (VIP-Sport), said although the athletes came across numerous challenges, the competition was worth it.

"While some athletes raced against the clock, others had personal challenges like completing their first national championships or guiding a visually impaired athlete in their first event.

"No matter the reason, the goal for each athlete was to do their best and enjoy the occasion," he said.

Congratulations were in order for Alberton's Gavin Kilpatrick and his guide Tiaan Engelbrecht of VIP-Sport for recording the fastest time. And also Linsay Engelbrecht and her guide Laura Horne of Fantastic Aquatics CGT for winning the ladies category.

In second place was Mhlangi Gwala, in third was Tim Stones and his guide Andrew Liddl, followed by Heinrich Vermaak and his guide Sam Smith, in fifth place was Irish Matcheke and in sixth was Izak de Villiers Louw.

"We would like to encourage anyone wishing to assist with sponsorship for a small team to travel to the competition to contact Gavin from VIP-Sport on 072 212 2058. Your contributions will assist towards making the dreams of a very unique group of athletes become a reality," said Kilpatrick.

Kilpatrick also extended a special thank you to Free State Triathlon, Central Gauteng Triathlon, Meyersdal Aquatics and Fantastic Aquatics and VIP-Sport for their expertise.

Second position on a borrowed bicycle

A cyclist from Boksburg, Casper Moodie, completed his first cycling championship in great fashion, taking second position at the South African Road and Time Trial Cycling Championship in Swellendam, Western Cape, from March 18 to 21.

The 33-year-old, who hails from Springs, competed in triathlons for six years and then turned to cycling.

Racing for Team Honeycomb Pro Cycling, he had many challenges to overcome before he lined up on race day.

His personal time trial bike broke three weeks before the race in a training session. The team sorted him with another bike and he quickly felt comfortable on it, but the night before the race the bike fell off the team car roof and cracked, making it impossible to use for race day.

One of the junior riders' father said he could use his bike. It was not his size bike to take on the race, but the team converted it for him to race. The team worked until 11pm the night before to get the bike ready for him on race day to start the race at 11.54am on Friday.

He lined up and started the 40km hilly windy time trial race, finishing in second place behind Cape Town rider Christiaan Jansen van Rensburg.

On Sunday morning he lined up again, against the best veterans riders in the country to tackle a gruelling 133km road race. He managed to get into a break early on with three other riders, but got caught at 45km in. As the kilometres went by, the tough course started to take its toll on the field of riders. He managed to stay calm and in contact of the leading group. At 15km to go, he found himself safe in second place, with 55 seconds behind the leader.

The result was something he dreamed about and worked hard for.

"It was so good to be out racing again after months of no racing due to the pandemic. We just hope the remainder of 2021 can go on as planned," said Moodie.
